

Edward Bortnick is one of three principals in the CPA firm, SKMB, P.A. which is located in a suburb of Washington D.C. He was the Co-Chairperson of the NACVA's 2007 annual meeting in Washington, D.C., is the secretary of the Maryland-D.C. Chapter of the NACVA and is on the 2008 planning committee for the NACVA 2008 meeting in Las Vegas, Nevada. He services a wide range of businesses in the accounting practice for which he is also involved in more traditional accounting services such as audit, review, individual, corporate, partnership and not-for profit tax related services. Mr. Bortnick has testified in circuit courts located in five different counties in the State of Maryland.

He has testified in Federal Court locations in Greenbelt, Maryland, Alexandria, Virginia, Miami, Florida, and Los Angeles, California. He is a member of the Business Enterprise Institute and has spoken for that organization in Denver, Colorado, Englewood Park Colorado and Jersey, City New Jersey.

He states "My affiliation with the NACVA has been one of best business decisions I have made during the course of my career. Not only have we benefited greatly from the excellent training in the areas of business valuation litigation support and fraud deterrence, but in addition, the organization has proven to be a great networking resource which has increased our business substantially and has created valuable personal and business friendships throughout the country. I would be remiss if I did not mention two of the other organizations that I was exposed to through my affiliation with the NACVA, both of which have substantially added to the income and stature of our accounting practice. The first one is John Brown's Business Enterprise Institute, a.k.a., Exit Planning For Advisors. His organization has added a new division to our practice and has also generated additional business valuation work and other valuable business and personal relationships from its members. The second organization is Steven Babitsky's Seak, Inc. One of the organization's main thrusts is teaching experts on how to be more effective witnesses."

Finally, I would like to thank the NACVA and its excellent staff for all their support through the years.
